

Averaged kinetic models for particle flows on complex networks

C. Ringhofer, Arizona State University

We propose a kinetic model for flows on arbitrarily complex networks. Large time averages of the model equations give a drift - diffusion model on time scales, not reproducible by Monte Carlo simulations. Applications to social and economic networks are discussed.