Topology of large random spaces
Michael Farber, Queen Mary, University of London

I will describe a model producing large random simplicial complexes which includes some well-known models as special cases. I will present results about geometric and topological properties of large random simplicial complexes in this model which hold with probability tending to one. In particular, I will describe the Betti numbers and fundamental groups of such spaces.