Bayesian Imaging and Compressive Sensing
Raghu Raj, U.S. Naval Research Laboratory

We review recent progress in powerful imaging algorithms based on a hierarchical Bayesian methodology. After reviewing the fundamentals of tomography and imaging, we delve into hierarchical Bayesian techniques that extend the capabilities of current Compressive Sensing algorithms to encompass truly global image priors. We demonstrate validations on optical imagery and conclude with directions of future research.