

Probabilistic nonlinear algebra

Dane Wilburne, Illinois Institute of Technology

In this talk, I will discuss how to use ideas and techniques from probabilistic combinatorics to study random algebraic structures. In particular, I'll discuss models for random monomial ideals and numerical semigroups as well as some open questions related to these topics. If time permits, I will discuss ongoing work related to h-vectors of random level algebras.