

Projective and Non-abelian SET

Catherine Hsu, University of Bristol

Mathematicians love SET. On the surface, this classic game is a contest of pattern recognition, but it also presents an interesting way to visualize the geometry of a torus over a finite field. In this talk, we will discuss some of the mathematics connected to SET and then explore two other versions of the game, one arising from projective geometry and one arising from non-abelian groups.