

Illuminating Braided Tangles

Tashrika Sharma, University of Vienna

Braids provide a more manageable way to study knots and links while tangles generalize both. A natural direction of inquiry is constructing a category of braided tangles in attempt to simplify tangles. A significant portion of this theory can be explored solely through drawing. This will be an informal talk given mostly through drawings in order to build up a visualization of braided tangles.