

Adaptive Sparse Grid Discontinuous Galerkin Methods for a Class of Nonlinear PDEs

Cheng, Yingda- Michigan State University

We present our recent work on adaptive sparse grid DG methods for high dimensional PDEs. The method is constructed based on multiwavelets of various kinds, and are demonstrated to be effective in adaptive calculations, particularly for high dimensional applications. Numerical results for kinetic simulations, conservation laws and Hamilton-Jacobi equations will be discussed.