

An Introduction to Integral Equations

Aдрианна Gillman, Rice University

In this talk, we will present an introduction to integral equations. A derivation of an integral formulation for a boundary value problem will provide insight into the connection between integral equation techniques and energy minimization problems. If time allows, a brief introduction to fast direct solvers for boundary integral equations will also be presented.