

Sphere packing, lattice packing, and related problems.

Abhinav Kumar, Stony Brook University

I will talk about the sphere packing problem, as well as its restriction to lattice packings (which has connections to number theory) and related questions such as the kissing number problem, with some focus on algorithms and computation. I will also describe some recent breakthroughs in low dimensions.