

Model order reduction for cardiovascular modeling

Alfio Quarteroni, MATHICSE - Ecole Polytechnique Fédérale de Lausanne

To face the complexity of the numerical simulation of cardiovascular flows, several reduction strategies can be adopted at the modeling level.

We review some recent results on the geometric multiscale model and address new methods based on the reduced basis paradigm for the solution of parametrized problems and in the context of optimal control problems. A few examples of clinical interest will be illustrated.