

Polynomials, number theory, and experimental mathematics

Michael Mossinghoff, Davidson College

We describe a number of problems in number theory involving polynomials, and some recent progress obtained on them by using experimental methods. The problems we discuss cover a number of topics, including Lehmer's problem regarding polynomials with small Mahler measure, Turan's question concerning how far a polynomial can be from an irreducible polynomial, and the Riemann hypothesis.