

Nonlinear affine processes

Thorsten Schmidt, University of Freiburg

In this talk we develop the theory of nonlinear affine processes and draw connections to affine processes under model risk. The idea is to introduce parameter uncertainty for this class of Markov processes and to extend over nonlinear Levy processes. Applications in credit risk and some interesting examples will be discussed.