

Renormalization, stochastic parametrization, and large-eddy simulation

Alexandre Chorin, University of California, Berkeley and Lawrence Berkeley National Laboratory

I will discuss the relations between these methodologies, and the ways they complement each other, with examples from computational fluid mechanics